OUR FLAG

(From the Southern Ruralist.)

WHEN you see the Stars and Stripes displayed, son, stand up and take off your hat! Somebody may titter. It is popular to deride all expression of noble sentiment. You may blaspheme in the street, and stagger drunken in public places, and the bystanders will not pay much attention to you; but if you should get down on your knees in the street and pray to Almighty God, or if you should stand bareheaded while a company of old soldiers marched by with their flag some people would sneer.

Don't you mind! When Old Glory comes along, salute, and let them think what they please! When you hear the band play "The Star Spangled Banner," in a restaurant or hotel, get up even if you rise alone; stand there and don't be ashamed of it, either!

For of all the signs and symbols since the world began, there is never another, save only the cross sanctified on Calvary, so full of meaning as the flag of our country.

That piece of red, white and blue bunting means five thousand years of struggle upward. It is the full-blown flower of ages of fighting for liberty. It is the century plant of human hope in bloom.

It means the answered prayer of generations of slaves, of the helots of Greece, of the human chattels of Rome, of the vassals of feudalism, of the serfs of Russia, of the blacks of America, of all the down-trodden people of the ages.

Your flag stands for humanity, for an equal opportunity to all the sons of men. We haven't arrived yet at that goal; there is injustice still among us, many senseless and cruel customs of the past still cling to us, but the only hope of righting the wrongs of men lies in the feeling produced in our bosoms by the sight of that flag.

It stands for no race. It is not like an English, French or German flag. It stands for all men who will come and live with us under its protection. It is the only banner that means mankind. Other flags mean a glorious past, this flag means a glorious future. It is not so much the flag of our fathers as it is the flag of our children, and of all children's children yet unborn. It is the flag of to-morrow—the signal of the "Good Time Coming." It is not the flag of your king, it is the flag of yourself and of your neighbors.

It has a power concealed in its folds and scatters abroad an influence from its flutterings. That power and influence mean that in due time, slowly and by force of law, yet surely as the footsteps of God, the last ancient fraud shall be smitten, the last unearned privilege removed, the last irregularity set right, the last man shall have a place to work and a living wage, the last woman shall have all her rights of person and of citizenship, and the last and least of children shall be sheltered and trained and equipped by the sovereign state, and so have their right to live.

Don't be ashamed when your throat chokes and the tears come, as you see it flying from the mast of a ship in some foreign port. You will never have a worthier emotion. Reverence it as you would reverence the signature of the Deity.

By thousands the victims of old-world caste are streaming westward, seeking here the thing that flag stands for—opportunity. It stands for the open door of ambition against the closed door of caste.

It waves defiance at all ghosts, they that have for long intimidated men; the ghost of monarchy, the ghost of aristocracy, the ghost of war, the ghost of ecclesiastic rule; all they that still lay shadowy hands upon the life of Europe and Asia.

Listen, son! The band is playing "The Star Spangled Banner." They have let loose "Old Glory" yonder. Stand up and Hurrah for the flag of your country!

Saturday, more than 1000 people came from outside of Cape Girardeau. Nearly every town in Southeast Missouri had a delegation present.

The meet has done much to encourage many lines of high school work in this Normal District. Enough entries have been already received to assure a successful meet this year.

Awakening of the Press.

It is interesting to note the attitude of the press at large regarding the recent "bone-dry" amendment passed by Congress to become effective July 1, 1917. Hearings on anti-liquor advertising laws were held but received comparatively little notice from the newspapers of the country. With the passage of this drastic legislation, forbidding the mailing of a newspaper published, for example, in New York or Ohio, to Georgia or Indiana, as soon as the amendment becomes effective, the press has realized that this is simply a first step toward national censorship.

Comments by many of the newspapers throughout the country are reproduced on another page. The following editorial from the Waterbury, Conn., American is another instance of how the press views this Reed Amendment since its passage. The attitude taken by the American is that one result of this legislation is "to get even with the press more than to promote temperance." This opinion is shared by many other newspapers who are now attacking the Reed Amendment, although they remained comparatively supine and silent during the progress of the many hearings regarding anti-prohibition liquor advertising legislation in Washington.

The editorial from the Waterbury, Conn., American in full follows: "Those in whose hands is current prohibition propaganda are as clever as the children of darkness. They have put in the Post Office Bill a paragraph which makes it a crime to send a newspaper into a prohibition state, if it contains a liquor advertisement, although it is no crime to print it in the state where it is published. The purpose in view is to get even with the press more than to promote temperance. The loss of the liquor advertising is not important—many papers do not print them now. But the principle is bad and puts the liberty of the press into the hands of revengeful politicians to a degree that threatens a very important public protection."

Produce More Honey to Relieve Sugar Scarcity.

Honey is better than sugar. It is more easily digested. It can be used in place of sugar or syrup. Enough honey goes to waste each season on every farm to relieve the high price of sugar in the home. Let the bees save this waste. In most recipes, honey can be substituted for sugar with an improvement of the finished product. Conditions incident to the war point to a sugar shortage so it is important that beekeepers increase the yield of honey. This can be accomplished by enabling the bees to more thoroly pasture every acre of cultivated or waste land, according to Leonard Haseman of the Missouri College of Agriculture and E. E. Tyler, beekeeper.

A few good stands of bees on every farm will help increase the yield of fruits and other crops by the distribution of pollen from blossom to blossom besides storing surplus honey. Where there is a continuous supply of honey producing plants, such as fruit, berries, Linden, white and sweet clovers with the numerous wild flowers throughout the season, above fifty pounds or more of surplus honey can be secured per colony. An apiary of a dozen colonies in standard ten frame hives with proper care will average fifty gallons of honey a year with some increase of colonies.

A start in bees may be had by transferring them from bee trees, catching run-away swarms, or buying a few swarms from a neighbor. Bees are less trouble than anything else on the farm for the profit secured, but they must not be neglected. They respond to proper care and will give a good return for the time devoted to them. Form a local bee club of live workers and get in touch with the College of Agriculture and State Agricultural Society. Send for their reports on Farm Beekeeping, Seasonable Hints, and other helpful information on the care of bees. By forming clubs, pig clubs, calf clubs, poultry clubs, corn clubs, and bee clubs, much can be done in an educational way and at the same time the scarcity of food which is serious at this time can be relieved.

Wheat Crop is Lacking.

Corn must make up for the shortage in the wheat and other grain crops according to a statement which was recently made by Dean F. B. Mumford of the College of Agriculture of the University of Missouri.

"The United States produced in 1915 ten bushels of wheat per capita," Dean Mumford declares. "In 1916 we produced only six bushels per capita. In 1916 we consumed for seed and ordinary consumption six and one-third bushels per capita. There was exported from American ports in 1916 two and one-half bushels per capita. Recent estimates of the world crop indicate that there is a harvest of nearly 300 million bushels. "The present condition of wheat is 63 per cent of normal. Compared with a 10-year average, it is 86 per cent normal."

Platinum in 1916.

Preliminary estimates based on practically complete returns made to the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, by domestic refiners of platinum (about 74 per cent metal) were refined, producing 172 ounces platinum, 84 ounces of iridium, and 113 ounces of South American crude platinum, about 88 per cent pure, were refined.

The platinum metals produced by refining crude placers platinum, of both foreign and domestic origin, amounted to 8,943 ounces platinum, 235 ounces iridium, 139 ounces iridosmine, and 19 ounces palladium.

Refiners of copper matte and gold bullion report a production from foreign and domestic material of 2,556 ounces platinum, 100 ounces iridium, and 2,743 ounces palladium. About half of this output was produced from domestic materials.

The total production of new platinum metals in 1916 was about 11,500 ounces of platinum, 335 ounces iridium, 209 ounces iridosmine, and 2,763 ounces palladium.

An Ironton Interview.

Mr. Hendley Tells His Experience.

The following brief account of an interview with an Ironton man over nine years ago, and its sequel, will be read with keen interest by every citizen.

J. Hendley, photographer, Ironton, says: "I was feeling run down and had sharp twinges and weakness across the small of my back. My kidneys often acted irregularly. When I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills, I made up my mind to try them and I got a supply at the Arcadia Valley Drug Co. They made a wonderful improvement and since using them, I have felt no signs of backache or other kidney disorder."

Mr. Hendley gave the above statement in December, 1906, and on July 17, 1916 he added: "I have very little bother with my kidneys now. Others of my family have also used Doan's Kidney Pills with satisfactory results."
